What is Job Corps?

Job Corps is a federally funded job training program for young adults. Job Corps was established in 1964, and today there are more than 118 centers nationwide dedicated to preparing an educated and skilled workforce.

Students at the Wilmington Job Corps Center receive academic and vocational training. In addition, they are taught employability skills that will benefit you, the employer.

“Not only do Job Corps graduates come out of the program with important skill sets, but they also show discipline and good work ethics.”
